

Closeout for M98110041

On January 1998, we were provided with a copy of an electronic mail message NSF's Information desk received. In that electronic message, the complainant<sup>1</sup> alleged that the subject<sup>2</sup> had claimed credit for her work on the development of a web site<sup>3</sup> and had removed the complainant's name from the list of staff. The complainant was concerned about the removal of her name because, without it, she did not have support for her claims of experience. OIG's initial review of the web site confirmed that the complainant's name was not included in the staff list.

However, in a subsequent visit, OIG found the complainant's name among the staff accompanied by a profuse acknowledgment of her efforts and the quality of the graphics. We consider this a satisfactory resolution to this matter, and closed this case.

---

<sup>1</sup> Ms. [REDACTED] a former employee of [REDACTED]

<sup>2</sup> Mr. [REDACTED], project director for the development of the web site.

<sup>3</sup> [REDACTED]